Background and Research Interests

In my master program, I primarily focused on deep learning techniques for graph representation learning and reasoning, and on intelligent applications with relational knowledge bases, such as knowledge base question answering, knowledge graph completion, and knowledge-based recommender systems.

My current research focuses on:

- Collecting necessary human knowledge (e.g., commonsense knowledge) to improve AI systems and generate explanations
- Designing effective explanation methods (e.g., using analogy) to facilitate human-AI collaboration (target users: laypeople, non-experts)
- Analyzing user factors (e.g., expertise, mindset) in shaping trust and reliance in human-AI collaboration.
